

Linda Webb

Linda Webb has been dedicating her life to civil service, law enforcement, and fighting fraud for over 30 years.

Her law enforcement career involved patrol, morals unit, selective enforcement unit (working vice), police motorcyclist, dive rescue, detective, and master academy instructor (teaching ethics and professionalism). Ms. Webb has taught over 20 officer courses, and designed multiple nationally recognized 'train-the-trainer' programs being used today. She has designed officer fitness programs for two departments that incorporating fitness into their annual in-service, and recruiting programs. She designed the first tactical first-aid kits used for officer safety, and has dedicated herself to Officer Wellness, one of the 6 Pillars of 21st Century Policing Model.

Ms. Webb worked as a contractor for USPS investigating sexual harassment, discrimination, and hostile work environment situations, implementing sensitivity training programs.

She has investigated fraud globally, examining thousands of cases involving organized crime rings, insurance fraud, and potential terrorist threats that have been highlighted by many national investigative news media. She is a highly sought-after fraud expert and speaker, and has consulted for crime drama shows.

Ms. Webb was Assistant Vice President of AIG's Global Fraud Unit, as well as a private contractor for the federal government, fighting Medicare fraud. She is the past President of a nationwide fraud investigative company employing over 120 personnel, which she helped to build from the ground floor. A pioneer of justice, her trademarked name 'The Fraud Dog' is a defender of the public and a leader of the people. Ms. Webb is dedicated to officer training, fighting fraud, and identifying corporate corruption.

She is a published author of the corporate motivational book, The Athletic Mindset, 3 Tools for Success, and most recently her second book, 6 Lessons to Racial Intelligence. She is the co-founder and CEO of RITE Academy.